proud for the day. Turn up with pride. Turn up with honesty.' In fact, history suggests Yeovil WILL get another opportunity like this. United were last here only three years ago and as a non-League club they took 20 League scalps. In preparation for United, motivational messages dot the stadium walls and each player has been given a 'warrior card' with personal goals. A psychologist came in last week. Way was lucky to survive a car crash in 2008 and Sir Alex Ferguson helped afterwards by bringing down a United side for his testimonial. The 38-year-old has leaned on Ferguson for advice ever since, with the Scot talking to Yeovil's players via Skype this month. John Terry gave them a set-piece masterclass recently and Lee Johnson has opened up Bristol City's facilities. Sometimes it's about who you know. Way added: 'It's been a difficult two-and-a-half years, but I've done my job. Now this is our chance to show what Yeovil are about. We're not called the giantkillers for nothing.'

Pressure: Way's Yeovil are fighting to stay in League
