

SCOUTS FLOCKING TO WATCH MOORS

HE'S only been a contract player for nine days, but already Yeovil Town have had an inquiry from a Second Division club about their 20-year-old striker Chris Moors.

And when the West Ham reject lined up against Carshalton on Tuesday there was a posse of Nationwide League scouts to run the rule over him.

"These are early days, but he has what it takes to go places", said his manager Graham Roberts. "He reminds me very much of Barry Hayles at Stevenage who is being talked about in the £100,000 bracket.

"Hayles is three years older and has had more of the rough edges rubbed off, but Chris could go a long way.

Partly it is down to him. He has the pace and the ability to put the ball in the net. Now he has to do it week in, week out and show that he is not a nine day wonder".
